RABID DOGS KEEP FAIRFIELD ALERT; ONE MORE IS SHOT

Christian Endeavor Society
Will Have Annual Banquet Tonight.

(Special to the Farmer.)

Fairfield, April 23.—Fear of further spread of the rabies among dogs in this town has led the town officials to conclude to seek an extension of the time for which dogs must be muzzled. The worst case of rabies called to the attention of the authorities was that at the home of James Dunne, Pine Creek road, where a spaniel was shot yesterday by Dog Warden Leroy P. Beach. Postmaster Simon C. Bradley reported the animal, which was muzzled and chained, but was acting so viciously that none dared approach the kennel. The animal's head has been sent to Middletown by Col. Valery Havard, the town health officer.

From the state laboratory in Middletown has come a report confirming the suspicion that the dog shot last Monday at the home of Walter DeFledge, Crescent road, had the rabies. The animal's head was sent there by Col. Havard. These cases stimulated the town dog warden and other officers with the result that the time for muzzling may be prolonged indefinitely.

Mrs. Annie Soos of Ardman avenue, whose dog was roaming unmuzzled through the principal streets, was fined $1 and costs in the town court today. Justice Bacon Walker allowed her two weeks in which to pay the fine.

Rev. David Akers, Theodore T. Phillips of Bridgeport and Miss Mary West, vice president, will be the chief speakers at the annual banquet this evening of the Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church, at the church parlors this evening.

REV. GERALD BEARD WANTS TO PUT BAN ON BOXING MATCHES

At a meeting of the Men's League of Park Street Congregational church last night, it was voted that the league's representative to the Central Council of the Brotherhood of Churches be instructed to ask the council to protest against the issuance of permits for boxing shows. It is claimed that the boxing shows are prize fights, and are held in violation of the law. Rev. Gerald H. Beard, pastor of the church told the members that the law defined a prize fight as a contest in which a blow was struck with the intention of "knocking out" an opponent. He said that from newspaper accounts of the boxing shows held here it is apparent that the purpose of every boxer is to force the bout to a definite conclusion by rendering his opponent unable to continue.

Thomas Pardy, chairman of the meeting read a paper on Commission Government, in which he argued that a change should not be made at once, but by degrees through the different departments just as efficiency engineers make over the system of big business.

A. E. Lavery, William Boardman and Frank Schriever defended the present system of government, claiming the apathy of the voters was responsible for the evils that exist.

Connecticut Piano Dealers Have Feast

Many piano dealers of Connecticut and other states gathered at the Hotel Stratfield last night where the ninth annual meeting of the Connecticut Piano Dealers' association was held and was followed by a banquet. Officers elected for the ensuing year are: F. B. Watkins, Hartford, president; M. B. Leichter, New Haven, vice president; A. P. McCoy, Waterbury, secretary; P. R. Cumming, Waterbury, treasurer.

At the banquet speakers from the prominent piano trade journals, as well as local dignitaries, addressed the convention. Among these were City Clerk J. B. Robinson, H. Edvard Lyman Bill, editor and proprietor of The Music Trade Review, "Problems of Our Times"; Alexander McDonald, editor of the Player-Piano Journal, "Piano and Player Advancing"; Percy S. Foster, secretary of the National Association of Piano Merchants of America, "Greetings from Our Association"; Edward S. Payson, honorary member of the association, and Postmaster Charles P. Green.

The guests of the association at the banquet were as follows: J. A. Coffin, treasurer of the National Piano Manufacturers' association; William J. Keeley, second vice-president of the National Piano Travelers' association; Mark F. Campbell, president of the Brambach Piano Co.; George Miller, president of the Lester Piano Co.; R. W. Lawrence, president of the Autopiano Co.; George Waldo, Jr., managing editor of the Bridgeport Telegram; Lynn Wilson of the Bridgeport Farmer; Sidney N. Mayer, vice-president of the J. and C. Fisher Co.; J. Birney Tuttle, counsel for the Connecticut Piano Dealers' association.

BELGIAN FUND NOW OVER MILLION DOLLARS

Three-Fourths of Total Due to Newspaper Advertising

New contributions to the Belgian Relief Fund of $5,545.20 have brought to total to more than a million dollars, the exact amount being $1,000,000. This is said to be the largest amount ever raised by a committee on behalf of foreign charity. The Fund has also collected more than $700,000 in food, and the actual amount of food supplies sent to Belgium up to date is valued at more than $1,550,000. Since January 5, the Fund has accepted nothing but cash contributions, experience showing that both time and money were saved by working on that basis.

The smallest individual contribution to the Fund was one cent, which was brought into the office by a Chinaman early last September. The largest contributions have been checks for $10,000. More than 200,000 contributors are represented, and contributions have come not only from every state in the Union, but from Hawaii, the Philippines, Cuba, South America, Africa and Turkey. Fully three-fourths of the contributions have been received as the direct result of newspaper advertising. The cost of collection and distribution, as shown at the last auditing of the Fund's accounts, has been only a little more than one per cent. Edward B. Lyman, manager of the Fund, has used more advertising space than ever before was taken for any charitable purpose. Speaking of this phase of the work, Mr. Lyman says:

God:

God can't forget; if he did, he wouldn't be God. If God gave us our deserts we'd all be in hell long ago.

It makes no difference to God whether one wears a plug hat or a hairpin.

God has more respect for an out-and-out infidel than for a fourflusher.

God doesn't run any excursions to Heaven. You must pay the full fare. Your religion is worth just what it costs you.

Don't think God has forsaken you when the hearse is at the door. Don't throw away your ticket when you enter the tunnel.
